LIQUOR TRIAL TO START SATURDAY

Freemont Miller Of Franklin Unable
To Come Today To Sit As Special Judge

TO BE HERE IN THE MORNING

Peculiar Situation Exists As Prosecutor-Elect Ketchum Takes Office On Monday

The case of the State against Fred Clevenger, charged with unlawfully selling liquor, failed in its third attempt this week to get started in the circuit court today, when Judge Freemont Miller of Franklin, selected to try the case, was unable to be here. He will come Saturday, however prepared to start the trial.

The Franklin judge was expected to be here at noon today, and it was thought the case would get under way at one o'clock, but he telephoned the local court officials at that hour, stating that the case he was hearing in his home city, was not finished, and he could not come until in the morning.

The selection of a judge was finally reached Thursday afternoon, when the defendant struck off the names of Judge Hines of Noblesville and Judge Himelick of Connersville the state previously having stricken the names of Judge Craig of Greensburg and Judge Gause of Newcastle.

The selection of a jury was expected to be a difficult task, as the case was tried once before, and because of the fact that many of the prospective jurors have expressed an opinion, or are acquainted with the facts of the case.

It was generally intimated that some sensational evidence might be given during the trial, and for this reason there was considerable interest being shown in the case.

At the former trial, which began December 1, Blaine Fritch, the prosecuting witness, who alleged that he bought two pints of white mule from the defendant on election day, changed his testimony and was arrested on a charge of perjury.

Fritch, since that time has pleaded guilty to the charge and is out on good behavior, awaiting sentence.

REPORT ON INCREASE IN RATES RECEIVED

New Salem Telephone Company is Ordered to Set up Depreciation
Account of 5 Per Cent

GROSS INCOME OF $118.62

A report on the findings of the public service commission of Indiana in the case of the New Salem Telephone company for authority to increase rates was received here today, following announcement in a brief Indianapolis dispatch Thursday that the company had been authorized to raise its rates for individual and two-party line service 35 cents a month and the multi-party line service 20 cents a month.

The company was ordered to set up a depreciation account of five percent of its depreciable property in accordance with Section 22 of the public service commission act. An allowance of 35 percent of the normal yearly depreciation was allowed as an operating expense, it being assumed that 65 percent of depreciation is realized and has been paid for from maintenance where there is no depreciation account.

The petition for the right to increase rates was filed August 7 of this year and a hearing was conducted here November 9, 1922. The New Salem company is a co-operative concern with an authorized capital of $5,000, of which there is paid in and outstanding $43,300 representing 66 shares of a par value of $50.00 per share.

The commission found the gross income of the company from January 1 to June 30, 1922 was $118.62.

FIVE VESSELS IN DISTRESS ON COAST

FIVE PERSONS KNOWN DEAD

Schooner Maizie Peabody With Crew
of Four Believed Lost—Storm
Hits New York

(By United Press)

New York, Dec. 29.—Five ships are in distress on the Atlantic coast, many others are overdue, scores are held in port unable to go out, sea board cities are sheared in ice and five persons are known dead, the result of gales which raged during the last twenty-four hours.

The weather was clearing today and the wind subsided. The schooner Maizie Peabody with a crew of four men was believed to have gone down, fifty miles off Point Comfort. An S. O. S. call was received from the steamer Monmotora with a crew of thirty-four men, Norfolk to Boston, which was practically water-logged. The Steamer Sontaros was ashore off Charleston, South Carolina.

Scores of schooners remained behind Delaware break waters, while gales whipped up waves outside and the air was thick with sleet and snow.

Three persons were killed in New England where the gale reached the velocity of seventy miles an hour. Two were killed in New York. Dispatches from Boston feared the safety of a number of small vessels caught in the storm.

Cities in New York state reported the heaviest snow of the winter.

The storm took its toll of hundreds of injured in New York City. From early last evening until day-break hospital ambulances were bringing in pedestrians with broken arms, fractured legs or cracked skulls, who had fallen victims to the treachery of ice-covered streets. Most hospitals were crowded to capacity and the problem of caring for new arrivals became increasingly grave as the list of injured mounted.

At least two persons are reported to have been killed in falls on the city's thoroughfares.

The wind reached high velocity. Combined with the unaccustomed burden of snow, it worked havoc with above-ground power and telephone lines, street car transmission cables, roofs of buildings and large trees.

Lives of pedestrians were endangered by falling signs, tumbling chimneys and smokestacks.

Thousands of dollars of damage were believed to have been sustained on Long and Staten islands, where numerous small craft were washed ashore. Along the waterfront the toll of damaged buildings was reported heavy.

City officials were out bright and early today in a personal canvass of Bowery "soup kitchens", "flop houses" and "bread lines" recruiting snow shovelers with which to augment the force of 24,000 advertised for last night.

Throughout the storm 6,000 reinforcements, armed with shovels, labored with the city's snow removing engines, but the mechanical plows were unable to do more than keep the thoroughfares passable. Street and elevated car lines were partly incapacitated, despite the

MUSKRATS CAUSE OF RACE WASHOUT

Break In Bank Causes I. & C. Power House To Be Shut Down And Traffic Stopped

MAY BE REPAIRED BY TONIGHT

Water From Race Used To Run
Engines That Produce Current
—Fields Are Flooded

A washout on the east bank of the mill race, just north of the C. I. & W. railroad bridge Thursday night at 9:30 o'clock, caused traffic on the Indianapolis and Cincinnati traction line to be discontinued, and workmen were attempting to repair the break in an effort to restore service by late this afternoon or tonight.

The power house for the traction company, which is located just south of the washout, uses water from the mill race to run their engines in their condensers and boilers, and when the bank gave way, north of the power house, it drained the race leaving the power house without water.

The race is owned by the traction company, and begins a mile north of Rushville where it branches from Flatrock. The race runs by the power house and along the southern boundary of Rushville, again emptying into the river south of Rushville.

The washout is attributed to muskrats digging holes in the bank, and water surging in the holes, caused the bank to give completely away, washing out a stretch 40 feet wide.

The first break in the bank was discovered yesterday about 5:30 and workmen immediately began to make repairs, but the water had the advantage and could not be headed off, and rapidly ate its way through the east bank, overflowing into the lowlands.

After the water had broken through, the race below the break went dry, and no water was available for the power house, causing the engines to be shut down. Traction cars on each division were abandoned when the power was cut off, and officials here sent out automobiles to carry passengers to their destination.

The men worked all night in an effort to repair the break, and today extra forces were assisting, and it was believed that the break would be mended late this afternoon, or early tonight, and that the regular schedule would be resumed.

The traction company spent several thousand dollars last summer on repairing the mill stream and be-

DAY TO BE OBSERVED AS A LEGAL HOLIDAY

Customary Hours Will Be Followed
At The Postoffice And Banks
Will Be Closed

FEW "WATCH NIGHT" PARTIES

Monday when the year 1923 is ushered in, will be observed as a legal holiday in Rushville, according to the regular custom. Few business houses close on New Year's Day, but the banks will be closed and the postoffice will follow holiday rules.

The windows at the postoffice will be open until ten o'clock in the morning and there will be one delivery of mail in the business district of the city. There will be no delivery, however, in the residence district or on the rural routes.

The court house will be open as usual because of New Year's many new county officers elected last month will take office. It is customary for the new officers to hold open house and serve apples and cigars to their friends who call to congratulate them.

The usual "Watch Night" parties will not be much in evidence, this year, it is said, on account of New Year's eve falling on Sunday night. Special New Year's sermons will be preached in the churches Sunday.

FINAL DECISION RESTS WITH TURKS

Near East Conference Stands Practically Suspended Awaiting Word From Ismet Pasha

POSSIBILITY OF BREAK SEEN

Turkish Delegation Has Few Days
To Reply To Allies—British On Way To The Straits

Lausanne, Dec. 29.—Final decision as to peace or war in the Near East rested with the Turks today. The conference stood practically suspended awaiting word from Ismet Pasha.

The Turkish delegation had a few days in which to reply to the allied insistence that mixed tribunals and judicial guarantees replace capitulations.

If he would finally and formally reject the demands it would mean the immediate end of the peace conference, it was declared.

Meanwhile the British were reported making preparations to meet an open break with a return to watchfulness at the Straits. A British fleet lead by the iron duke was reported under full steam for the Dardanelles.

The allies are stressing the capitulations issue, taking a firm stand against the subjection of foreigners in Turkey to the jurisdiction of the Turkish courts and insisting that special courts with foreign judges sitting in them must pass on cases in which foreigners are involved.

The Turks are strongly resisting what they term the invasion of Turkish sovereignty that would thus be brought about but their delegates insist that it is not the question of capitulations that presents the gravest dangers of a conference failure.

The oil issue they insist is the real one on which the allies are prepared to make a stand.

The stress the allies are placing on the capitulations question the Turks assert is to mask their strong interest in the rich oil fields involved in the dispute over possession of the Mosul valley, which the British insist they never will surrender and which the Turks are as firm in asserting is their inalienable property.

Despite the critical state reached by the conference, with hardly a single question of importance definitely settled, the delegates, although anxious, and apprehensive, have not given up hope that an adjustment finally will be reached. Today the allies were awaiting further word from the Turks regarding the foreign courts question, which Ismet Pasha yesterday asked further time to consider, the presumption being that he would seek instruction from Ankara.

Ismet Pasha repeated his assertion that special courts to pass on cases involving foreigners would be an infringement on Turkish sovereignty, so often yesterday that Lord Curzon retorted:

"I beg that Ismet Pasha wrap up and place carefully away in a cupboard the question of Turkish sovereignty which nobody wishes in the least to offend. Turkey is not the only country which enjoys sovereignty; many other powers have it, and frequently greater powers than Turkey submit question to international tribunals without fear of impairing their sovereignty."

Ismet had said Turkish laws and Turkish courts were the equal of any in Europe so often, Lord Curzon continued, that he had actually come to believe it.

STILL CONFISCATED

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 29.—A 100-gallon still, 1,000 gallons of mash for the manufacture of whiskey and about ten gallons of "white mule" whisky were confiscated, late Thursday, by George Snider, sheriff, and Deputy Sheriffs Hawkins and Kemp in a raid on the home of Frank Fornow, 2811 South Meridian street. Fornow was arrested on a charge of operating a "blind tiger."

Anderson —The Anderson Rotary club adopted a resolution endorsing the action of theatre proprietors here in placing a ban against Fatty Arbuckle's films.

CLOUDY WEATHER IS SEEN

Temperature Rising Following Drop
Thursday Night

Cloudy and warmer weather, probably followed by rain Saturday, is the prediction of the weather department, following a drop in the temperature Thursday night, when the mercury fell to 25 degrees above zero. The mercury all day yesterday hovered around the freezing mark, and at night it began to drop slowly a few degrees.

The lowest temperature tonight for this area is predicted to be in the neighborhood of 25 to 35 degrees above zero, and on Saturday rising temperature is scheduled to bring additional rainfall.

MACHINES COLLIDE AT FORK IN ROAD

Automobiles Driven By James Moore
Rural Mail Carrier, And Anderson Man Are Damaged

OCCUPANTS ARE NOT HURT

Two automobiles figured in a collision this morning, shortly after ten o'clock, at the fork in the road in Circleville, when machines driven by W. H. Mathews of Anderson and James Moore, 1015 North Perkins street this city were badly damaged.

The Anderson machine, which was a Hudson touring car, was going south, and in attempting to swing around the curve to make the turn onto the Milroy pike, ran into the Ford touring car driven by Mr. Moore, an d which was coming toward this city.

The front end of the Ford was torn off and the Hudson was badly damaged, having both lights torn off, fenders bent, and the running board on one side torn off. The occupants of the two cars were not injured.

Mr. Moore, who is a rural route carrier, was finishing up his morning work, and was coming into the local postoffice. He did not carry collision insurance, but it is understood that the owner of the other machine had his car insured.

NO ELECTION DUE TO LACK OF QUORUM

Old Officers of Red Cross Continued
Indefinitely—Nurse to Remain
Until May

WILL STUDY NEXT SUMMER

Due to the lack of a quorum, no officers were elected Thursday afternoon at the annual meeting of the Rush county chapter of the American Red Cross, which was held in the court house.

No definite date was set for any future meeting and it was not known today whether another attempt would be made to get a meeting of the members for the purpose of electing officers.

It was stated that the chapter has arranged for Miss Grace Ewing to continue as county Red Cross nurse until next May, when the county schools close. Miss Ewing desires to be released next summer to take some special work. Her contract for the first year as county nurse expired December 15 and she has continued in the same capacity until the annual meeting.

The county chapter has been without a president since W. E. Wagoner resigned as county superintendent of schools to accept the position as assistant state school inspector. Miss Henrietta Coleman, vice-president, has been the active head of the organization. Mrs. Harrie Jones is the secretary.

NEXT MOVE TUESDAY

Baltimore, Dec. 29.—Further action in the case of Dr. B. M. McKoin, arrested here Tuesday for the murder of Watt Daniels and Thomas Richards after they were alleged to have been kidnapped last August by a white-robed mob at Mer Rouge La., is not expected until next Tuesday.

JOHNSON ATTACKS BORAH'S PROGRAM

Former Associate of Irreconcilables Turns All of His Venom Against Idaho Senator

PREFERS LEAGUE OF NATIONS

New Mexico Senator Introduces Resolution for Loan of Billion Dollars to Germany

Washington, Dec. 29.—Bitterly and sarcastically assailing Senator Borah and his supporters for a world economic conference, Senator Hiram Johnson, California, in a speech in the senate today charged that Borah's plan was in the interest of the international bankers. He declared he would rather see the United States in the league of nations than in such a conference as Borah suggested.

Just before Johnson started his speech Senator Bursum, New Mexico, introduced a resolution for a loan of one billion dollars to the Germans to be used in purchasing farm products and farm implements in this country. The loan would be secured by Germany's industrial securities.

Johnson, who shed with Borah the leadership of the irreconcilables in the fight against the league covenant, turned on his former associates all the venom he formerly reserved for their joint opponents.

He indirectly declared that Borah was being made the tool of propaganda and the international bankers used Borah's own words to convince him of now favoring American employers in Europe.

"I am against the Borah amendment for the same reason I was against taking the United States in the league of nations," said Johnson. "I am against it because in my opinion it would do what thus far we have tried not to do. I am against it because it would embroil us in European controversy and finally make the United States a part of the European system. I am against it either with reservations or amendments, for I am unable to see that either would avert the serious consequences."

Confidently predicting its defeat, administration leaders hoped for final disposition today of the Borah proposal for a world economic conference, although the list of senators prepared to speak on the

WHERE IMMIGRANTS ENTER UNITED STATES

ELLIS ISLAND GATEWAY TO AMERICA
This wonderful, clear airview of Ellis Island—the gateway to America—shows where millions of immigrants are landed from foreign countries as soon as their ship enters New York Harbor.
The buildings at the right side of the Island consist of Ellis Island proper, where immigrants are examined, given help tests and have their passports thoroughly examined. Many foreigners are turned away each year for failing to pass the tests.
The left portion of the Island consists of hospitals, quarters for officials and other structures used in connection with the reception of immigrants in the United States. Several years ago, the United States Government took measures to restrict immigration to America, allowing each country to send only a certain number of immigrants in a given time. When the quota of each country has been filled, the foreigners are turned away and sent back to their country. This has been particularly evident of late and ships arriving in New York harbor at the last day of the given time for the quota or before that time, have had to wait outside the harbor before entering.
Directly in back of Ellis Island can be seen the piers and freight yards of the railroad terminals. In the far background is the Greenville section of Jersey City, N. J.

NEWSPAPERS are the greatest of all modern educators. They teach history in its making.

The exploits of exceptional people, the press of unusual events, the ebb and flow of political expedience—all are made public knowledge within a few hours after their happening. This information is instant and complete.

That is why men and women who are eager to be fully informed read the newspapers—not only the news of the world, but also the news of what to buy, where to buy and how to buy.

You cannot be abreast of the times if you overlook advertisements. For advertisements give you the real news of business. They are the messages of business to you. They tell of the new and wonderful things created for your convenience and pleasure — of merchandise gathered from the myriad markets of the world for you and your family.

Advertising teaches how to get the most in value and enjoyment for the least money. It gives you knowledge that pays.

WOULD ABOLISH TRUSTEES

One From South Whitley Expresses His Opinion in a Letter

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 29—"I think the day of the township trustee in Indiana should have ended ten years ago," J. Lee Emery, township trustee of South Whitley, wrote to the state department of public instruction today.

He is the second trustee who has written in favor of abolishing that office as recommended in a report by the Indiana School Survey commission. The commission advised a county unit school system.

"Too many trustees are 'penny pinchers,'" Emery said, "too many of them are not school men, neither are they interested in our schools. Many of them are stale and neglect their duty to the school, by placing money above the welfare of the child."

AMUSEMENTS

Nazimova At The Princess

As an evidence of its tremendous popularity on the stage, it is estimated that "Camille," the Nazimova production for Metro pictures showing today and Saturday at the Princess has been played at least a thousand times in this country alone since its first production in France seventy years ago.

An accurate estimate is extremely difficult to make, as nearly every stock company has it in its repertoire. Matilda Heron, who has the record for a long run of the play in this country, with forty-five performances in one season and twenty-one in another, played it for more than a decade, sometimes twice weekly. On this one play alone it is said that Miss Heron made $100,000.

In France "Camille" has always been a tremendous box office attraction, its tragic story of love and sacrifice appealing not only to pleasure-loving Paris, but to the more staid cities and villages throughout the rest of the country. It is figured that the author's native land has witnessed nearly three thousand presentations of "Camille." Ray S. Smallwood directed it and June Mathis made the adaptation. Rudolph J. Bergquist was photographer, Natacha Rambova, art director, and Joseph Calder, technical director.

New Actor At Mystic

The newest addition to the ever-increasing ranks of the motion picture stars is William Faversham, for many years one of the most distinguished actors of the English speaking stage who makes his appearance in "The Man Who Lost Himself," the first of a series of Selznick Pictures featuring this famous player.

"The Man Who Lost Himself," from a book by H. de Vere Stacpoole, will be shown at the Mystic Theatre today only.

It is described as a mystery comedy drama with setting in London. It concerns the adventures of an American who goes to sleep one night as plain Victor Jones, of Philadelphia, and awakes the next morning as the Earl of Rochester, with a household of ornate servants and disagreeable relatives, a beautiful wife from whom he is supposed to be estranged, and a reputation that makes him one of the most shunned men in English polite society.

Poor Jones has an equally hard time living up to the title or trying to get away from it, and his numerous odd adventures are said to constitute one of the most remarkable comedy dramas ever presented on the screen, and a production fully worthy of Mr. Faversham's talents.

CHILDREN EVADE LAW

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 30.—Many children are not attending school as required by law, according to E. U. Graff, superintendent of schools. The last legislature raised the age at which working permits may be granted children from 14 to 16 years. This law has been disobeyed in many instances, Superintendent Graff told the instruction committee of the board of school commissioners. He asked for additional help in the attendance department in order to remedy this condition.

PEACE WITH ALL MEN:—
Follow peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord.—Hebrews 12: 14.

The Primary Law

Governor McCray has announced that despite his personal disapproval of the primary law, popular opinion instead of an organized movement, will guide the forthcoming session of the Indiana general assembly in its treatment of the measure.

Public sentiment is a most difficult thing to follow, but if the results that have been obtained from the operation of the law in Indiana are any guide, such a complex system of selecting party candidates for office is not very popular with the voters because they have not used it.

Albert J. Beveridge, republican candidate for United States senator from Indiana, received 206,165 votes in the primary and 524,558 in the November election, thus disclosing that he won the nomination by receiving barely forty percent of the vote cast for him at the election. Samuel Ralston was given the nomination by his party with a little more than thirty percent of his election vote.

There were 648,009 votes cast for all senatorial candidates in Indiana in the primary and in the election there were 1,082,727 votes for Mr. Ralston and Mr. Beveridge, showing that only sixty-five percent of the people who participated in the general election had enough interest in their party to take part in the selection of candidates.

The primary election law of Indiana was enacted in 1915, and has been in operation at the elections of 1916, 1918, 1920 and 1922. It applies to the Democratic and the Republican parties only. In 1916, the primary was held in March, in 1918, 1920 and 1922 in May.

The primary provides for a preferential vote for president, vice-president, United States senator, and governor; for the direct nomination of candidates for congress, the general assembly, all county, city and township officers, and the local judiciary; for the election of precinct committeemen and delegates to the state convention; and the creation and control of party machinery.

There are four officers for which a preferential vote may be taken; 358 for which direct nominations may be made, involving the possible selection of 9056 candidates; 3283 precinct committeemen and 1678 delegates to the state convention to be elected, and 19 state officers, who are nominated at the state convention.

As originally enacted in 1915, the Indiana law contained a first and second choice provision, but owing to its unpopularity and complexity, this provision was repealed in 1917.

PEOPLE'S SAYSO

Mr. Editor of the Republican: Through your valuable paper I wish to say that the Christian people are becoming more and more awake to the fact that a great tidal wave of unbelief is sweeping over Christendom, not the blasphemous atheism voiced by Tom Paine and Bob Ingersoll but the cultured kind represented in the scholarship of our day, which makes the danger all the more insidious.

I have been noticing for a few years past the declination of church going people and the decline is alarming. Not only are the great colleges and seminaries undermining the faith of the better educated but the common school books and especially those used in the high school are similarly inculcating a distrust in the Bible, a contradiction of its teachings.

For a college graduate of today to declare his faith in the inspiration of the scriptures would bring upon him the scorn of his companions, a scorn which few would court or could endure. At very best a few will be found to claim that they believe that Jesus and his apostles were sincere though they blundered in quoting from the old testament as inspired.

Such a belief in Jesus and his apostles is no belief at all, for if present day higher critics are wise enough to know when and where our Lord and his apostles erred in their quotation from the old testament, then these wise men of our day are our proper guides.

More inspired than Jesus and his apostles, the religious world realizing the need, is seeking to do all in its power to stem the tide and lift up the Lord's standard for the people. Although by and through the ecclesiastical powers we today have D. D.'s and presiding elders to feed the flocks and if anyone will take the time to read Ezekiel 34-4, as for that matter the whole chapter, they will find the reason why the churches are where they are today. Instead of doing what our Lord commanded the D. D.'s and higher-ups preach everything but the gospel of Jesus Christ.

There is Armistice Day, Freedman's day, Christian Endeavor Day, Armenian Day and many other days, but none for the Salvation of Souls. I want to ask where has that old time religion gone. Has God changed? No. For he says there are two immutable things he can not do. He can not change nor he can not lie. How in the world can we worship in a lie. We often sing Give Me This Old Time Religion, when all the time we are singing we are singing a lie. They forget that the command was 'go ye into all the world and preach glad tidings and my gospel to every creature and for them to not take with them neither purse nor scrip nor two coats, nor staves.' Yet we have the one thousand, two thousand, five and even ten thousand dollar preachers making God's word a travesty.

This is why over one half of the people have quit going to church, all style and no God. All this is brought about by these great D. D.'s I wish some one to show me in the scripture the word D. D. Christ called the weak to confound the mighty. He chose fishermen for his disciples, not the learned nor the mighty that have worn their heads bald studying how to read great essays. How beautiful are their feet that stand on Zion's hill and bring glad tidings and peace.

THE RIVER TIME

A wonderful stream is the river
Time

As it runs through the realms of
tears,

With a faultless rhythm and a musical
rhyme

And a broader sweep and a surge
sublime,

And blends with the ocean of
years.

There's a musical isle up the river
Time

Where the softest of airs are
playing;

There's a cloudless sky and a tropical
clime

And a song as sweet as a vesper
chime,

And the tunes with the roses are
staying.

And the name of this isle is the
Long Ago,

And we bury our treasures there,
There are brows of beauty and bosoms
of snow,

There are heaps of dust, but we
love them so!

There are trinkets and tresses of
hair.

There are fragments of songs that
nobody sings,

And a part of an infant's prayer;
There's a lute unswept and a harp
without strings,

There are broken vows and pieces of
rings,

And the garment she used to
wear.

There are hands that are waves
when the fairy shore

By the mirage is lifted in air;
And we sometimes hear through the
turbulent roar

Sweet voices we heard in the days
gone before

When the wind down the river is
fair.

O remember'd for aye be the blessed
isle,

All the day of life till night!

And when evening comes, with its
beautiful smile,

And our eyes are closing in slumber
awhile,

May that Greenwood of soul be in sight.

America Supreme in Tennis

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Dec. 29—Injury to "Big Bill" Tilden, which may remove from the court the champion of champions and the greatest of all time players, was the outstanding incident of 1922 in tennis.

Rather fortunately, if such an accident can be considered as such, it did not happen until the end of a season in which he convinced all skeptics that he was the greatest player in the world.

In an exhibition game late in the fall, Tilden scratched the middle finger of right hand on the wire of a backstop and blood poison resulted. Two operations were necessary and the finger was removed at the second joint.

With the exception of the forehand and backhand strokes, Tilden will have to revise all of his defensive and offensive weapons and he says he will consider himself lucky if he is able to land in the first ten next year.

"Tilden has such a 'tremendous heart,' though, that his courage on the court may be enough to pull him through.

Resumption of the feud between Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen and Mrs. Molla Mallory was the feature of the early season. The American champion went to Wimbledon and worked her way through the British championship to the final round against the French girl. Mlle. Lenglen played the greatest tennis of her life and, in routing the American champion, showed that she was the real queen of the world's court.

When Mrs. Mallory got to the American woman championships,

she demonstrated her superiority over all the American girls.

The form shown by Helen Wills, the California youngster, was a warning, however, to the queen that she hasn't long to reign.

If America had not been sitting so unquestionably on the top of the tennis world for several years, the victory of the American team over the Australians in the Davis Cup Challenge round would have been one of the biggest events of the year.

The work of the two Bills—Tilden and Johnston—and young Vinnie Richards of course was duly appreciated, but it was rather a matter of form, as it was almost a pre-ordained fact that the Americans would win.

Tilden's injury will not work to the harm of the Davis Cup classics, although established that other nations are thinking it poor business to spend so much money for a seemingly impossible chance of winning the cup for several years.

Bill Tilden has done more for tennis than any other person in the game and even in misfortune he may be doing the same good.

For several years, some tennis fans have been of the opinion that Bill Johnston was the real king of American tennis and that in 1920 and 1921 Tilden won because the physically inferior Johnston had been over-tennis.

In the championships this year, however, Tilden should have convinced all those who thought little of him before that he is the greatest player in the world.

He beat Patterson, winner of the British championship easily and when he beat Johnston, he defeated one who is only a hairaway from being the best in the world.

A. C.'S COMING HERE TONIGHT

The Arlington basketball game with the New Palestine team at Arlington Thursday night was called after twelve minutes of play, on account of the electricity for the lighting system being cut off, by the break of the I. & C. dam in this city. The score at that time was 15 to 3 in favor of Arlington. In the curtain raiser the Morristown high school defeated the Morristown alumni, 18 to 15.

The Arlington A. C.'s come to this city tonight for a game with the former Rushville high school stars. On Tuesday night the former stars defeated the A. C.'s by a one point margin and Arlington is coming here tonight prepared to take home the long end of the score. The game will be played at the high school gymnasium.

Next Thursday night the Moscow Independent team will meet the A. C.'s at Arlington.

YANKEE FIVE DEFEATS KNIGHTSTOWN QUINTET

Carthage Independents Win on Home Floor Thursday Night by Score of 21 to 19

KNIGHTSTOWN WON FIRST-ONE

The Carthage Yankee Five basketball team defeated the Knightstown Independents at Carthage Thursday night by the score of 21 to 19. Carthage led the first half, 15 to 9. John Moore, captain of last year's high school team, who is a member of the independent team this year, scored seventeen points for the winners. In the last half of the game there was only one field goal difference in the score, after Knightstown tied the score, early in the first part of the last half.

In the curtain raiser, the Westland Seconds defeated the Knightstown Seconds, 33 to 5. This was a slow game and at no time during the game was the outcome in doubt.

The Knightstown Independents were recently organized and play in the new gymnasium at Knightstown. They played their first game at New Salem a week ago last night and won an overtime game running for five periods by the score of 23 to 21. The score was sixteen all at the close of the game and at the close of each five minutes of overtime, the score was tied, making twenty-five minutes extra playing to decide the contest.

Any independent teams wishing games with the Knightstown five are requested to write or call Russell Bell, rural route 10, Rushville.

amendment made a vote doubtful with the probability of a delay over the New Year's holiday.

Included among the half dozen senators to speak on the proposal, Senator Borah, who presented it as an amendment to the naval appropriation bill, planned to make another address replying to President Harding's letter read in the senate yesterday, in which Mr. Harding virtually asked for the amendment's defeat.

In addition to Mr. Borah others to discuss the proposal were Senators Johnson, California; Watson, Indiana; Capper, Kansas, and Moses, New Hampshire, from the Republican side, and probably Senator Hitchcock, Nebraska, and other Democrats.

With a dramatic turning point in the senate fight over the proposal reached in the reading of the President's letter to Senator Lodge (Mass.) Republican leader, not only were administration leaders predicting its defeat today, but also on the present status of the fight, supporters of the amendment were conceding its defeat today, but also on the or, still to be endeavoring to gain support among doubtful members. Senator Borah himself, on the floor late yesterday, said he expected the amendment to be thrown out.

100 WAYS To Make Money

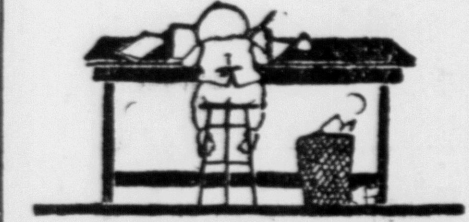

By BILLY WINNER
If I Could Keep Books

I WOULD get in touch with small merchants who employed no regular bookkeepers. For a reasonable charge, I would offer to go over their books at regular intervals, correct them and bring them up to date.

This would be a valuable service to any number of grocers, butchers, electrical dealers and other merchants right here in Rushville.

Fine! But how would I get in touch with the merchants needing my services? That would be about the easiest part of the whole thing.

I would run a want ad in The Daily Republican. The merchants would see it and come to me. It then would be but a matter of arranging terms and beginning to make money. No waiting for mine!

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Reed pleasantly entertained a number of guests to a three course dinner party at their home southeast of the city Monday. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Browning and family, Earl Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. Kirby Browning and family, Miss Ethel Posz and Elmer Perkins.

Miss Dorothy Frazee of this city attended a luncheon bridge party Thursday at the home of Mrs. Emma Venn in Indianapolis, honoring her grand daughter, Mrs. L. Duncan Loyd of Cambridge, Mass. Mrs. Loyd was formerly Miss Olivia Schad of Indianapolis. Covers were laid for sixty guests at small tables.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Osborne were gracious host and hostess Thursday evening at their home in West Fifth street, when they entertained with a prettily appointed dinner party. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Russell Carfield and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Spivey. The evening was enjoyed following the serving of the dinner, with playing Five Hundred.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Hart of Falmouth entertained Christmas Day at a Turkey dinner, the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Russel Barringer, son Myron and daughter Kathryn, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brown, Mr. and Mrs. William Ruhlman, William Rettenmeier and Miss Estella Roth, all of Rushville, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morelock and daughter Cecelia of Losantville, Ind.

Eighty six couples attended the holiday dance at the Elks club rooms Thursday night. Wright's six-piece orchestra of Columbus, Ohio, was highly praised for the splendid music for the dance program. Many out-of town guests and college students home on vacation were present for the dance. The hall was very gaily decorated in holiday colors and a buffet lunch was served during the evening.

Mrs. Alice Leisure delightfully entertained with a family dinner party Sunday at her country home near Carthage. The guests included her sister, Mrs. Robert Ball and husband of Shelby county, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Covolt and children, Doris Maxine and son Marvin Eugene, Mr. and Mrs. John Ball and children, Miss Grace Clarice of Newcastle, Mrs. Jane Leisure, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hutchinson and daughter Miss Zeldia and Albert English of Louisiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gardner entertained Christmas night with a Fache party at their home near Mays, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. James Bracken of Culver Ind. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pike and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ertel, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Glazier of Muncie, Mr. and Mrs. Win Ertel, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Abernathy, the Misses Gertrude Ertel, Ruby Newhouse and Mable Hamilton and Carl Ertel, William Ertel

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dolan entertained Christmas day with a turkey dinner in honor of their guests, at their home near Falmouth. The house was decorated with holly and poinsettias and covers were laid for twenty-four. Dinner was served by candle light. After the Christmas tree was lighted and gifts exchanged, the guests departed. They included Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Kribs and family, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Canady, Mr. and Mrs. James George and family, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Biddinger, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Dolan and Mr. and Mrs. George Eubank and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Williams entertained Christmas day with a very prettily appointed Christmas dinner. The table was beautifully decorated for the occasion with tiny artificial Christmas trees and lighted candles with red shades. The turkey dinner was served in courses to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Jay E. Walker and children Charlotte and Thomas of Indianapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Lafayette Williams, Dan Williams and Dale Williams of Shelbyville, Mr. and Mrs. George S. Billman and children Louis and Philip, and Robert Allen Major of Shelbyville. A Christmas tree, appropriately decorated, also was enjoyed during the day.

TO TAKE ACTION TO RELIEVE CONGESTION

Circuit Judges to Meet Friday to Devise Plan to Transfer Judges to Congested Circuits

TO NOMINATE NEW ONES

Washington, Dec 29--Action to relieve the great congestion of federal courts, due mainly to the large number of prohibition cases, will be taken here within the next few days. At the call of Chief Justice Taft, federal circuit judges met here today to devise a plan authorized in a recent bill sponsored by Attorney General Daugherty, by which Judges can be transferred from slack to congested circuits. How to handle the prohibition cases will be one of the main topics of discussion.

President Harding is also expected to nominate within the next few days several of the additional federal judges recently authorized by congress to relieve the prohibition law congestion.

Five of these judges have been named but with four vacancies resulting from death and promotions the president has 21 places to fill.

At the time the act creating the new judgeships was passed 16,000 prohibition cases were pending in federal courts. Now the total has increased to 20,000, making the demand for the new judges more imperative.

MYSTERY REMAINS AN UNSOLVED ONE

Two Months Has Elapsed Since
Poison Cake Was Received by
Philadelphia Couple

HUSBAND DIED FROM AFFECTS

All Clues to Sterrett Cake Mystery
Have Been Set Aside by The Officers

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 29—The Sterrett poison cake mystery has
gone down on the crime annals of Pennsylvania as "unsolved".

Two months ago today Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Sterrett of Devon, near
here, received a neatly wrapped parcel
post package that contained two
large slices of wedding cake.

Shortly after eating the cake, Mr.
and Mrs. Sterrett became ill and
were rushed to Bryn Mawr Hospital.
Sterrett died from poison that was
secreted in the "devil's food" and,
after a long illness, Mrs. Sterrett recovered.

Investigators and postal inspectors began a nationwide search for
the sender of the "death package".
The parcel bore no identification
marks and the address was type-
written, baffling authorities.

Sterrett was a public accountant
and search was instituted for a man
who would have had a motive in
taking the accountant's life, because
he had found discrepancies in accounts, but without avail.

Clues first pointed to an insane
man who was once employed by Sterrett and later to women, one in Youngstown, Ohio, another in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Typewriters, hundreds of them,
were examined to find the machine
that addressed the "parcel of death"
but without success.

The investigation had included
hundreds of drug stores where the
arsenic that was blended with the
sweet white icing on the cake was
purchased, but without result.

Even a coroner's inquest into
Sterrett's death has not been held,
because of the lack of one single
tangible thing upon which a jury
might hang a verdict.

Mrs. Sterrett has closed up her
house at Devon, sold her furniture
and returned to the home of her
mother at Claredon, Pa.

The Girl on The Edge of a Cliff CHAPTER II

Dorothy, unlike Gilbertin Murray,
was not to be read at a glance, and
her trouble—for she certainly had
a trouble—was not one she chose to share with any one, even with me. I could not but ask if the varying
moods by which I had found myself
secretly harrowed had not sprung
from a cause for which my persistent love was more to blame than
the temper of her relative. The aversion she had once shown to my attentions had yielded long ago to a
shy, but seemingly sincere appreciation of them, culminating today in
that soft pressure of my hand which
had awakened my hopes and made
me forget all the doubts and cap-
rices of a disturbing courtship.

But, had I interpreted that strong,
nervous pressure aright? Had it necessarily meant love? Might it
not have sprung from a sudden desperate resolution to accept a devotion which offered her a way out of
difficulties especially galling to one
of her gentle but lofty spirit? Her
expression when she caught my look
of joy had little of the demure ten-
derness of a maiden blushing at her
first involuntary avowal. There was
shrinking in it, but it was the
shrinking of a frightened woman,
not of an abashed girl. Had I mistaken my darling's feelings? Or had
she secretly yielded to another what
she had so long denied me and—
"Ah!" said Sinclair at this juncture, "I see that I have roused you at last." "You begin to see that a question of the most serious import
is before us, and that this question
must be answered before we separate
for the night."

"I do," said I.
"Then so much is gained. The
next point is, how are we to settle
our doubts? We can not approach
either of these ladies with questions.
A girl wretched enough to contemplate suicide would be especially
careful to conceal both her misery
and its cause. Neither can we order
a search made for an object so
small that it can be concealed about
the person. Yet this jewel must be recovered. Listen Sinclair, I will have a talk with Dorothy, you with Gilbertine. If a secret lurks in either breast our tenderness should find it
out."

But before we proceed to such extreme measures, let us make sure
that there is no shorter road to the truth. Some one may have seen
which of our two girls went back to
the library after we all came out of
it. That would narrow down our inquiry and save one of them, at least,
from unnecessary disturbance."

Mrs. Armstrong, our hostess, was fond of gaiety, and amusements were
never lacking. As we stepped down
into the great hall we heard music
in the drawing room and saw that
a dance was in progress.

"That is good," observed Sinclair.
"We shall run less risk of finding
the library occupied."

"Shall I not look and see where
the girls are? It would be a great relief to find them both among the
dancers."

"Yes," said he.
I slipped toward the drawing-
room.

A rush of young people greeted me as soon as I showed myself. But I was able to elude them and catch
the one full glimpse I wanted of the great room beyond. On a divan near
the center was a lady conversing

with two gentlemen. Her back was toward me, but I had no difficulty in recognizing Miss Murray. Some distance from her, but with her face
also turned away, stood Dorothy.
She appeared quite at ease and more
than usually cheerful.

Relieved, I hastened back to Sin-
clair, who was watching me with
furtive eyes from between the curtains of the window. As I joined him
a young man, who was to act as
usher, sauntered from behind one of
the great pillars and, crossing to
where the music-room door stood
open, disappeared behind it.

Sinclair seized me by the arm.

"Was that Beaton?" he asked.

"Certainly; didn't you recognize
him?"

He gave me a very strange look.
"Does the sight of him recall anything?"

"No."
"You were at the breakfast-table
yesterday morning?"

"I was."
"Do you remember the dream he
related for the delectation of such
as would listen?"

Then it was my turn to go white.
"You don't mean—" I began.

"I thought at the time that it
sounded more like a veritable adventure than a dream; now I am
sure that it was such."

"Sinclair! You do not mean that the young girl he professed himself
to have surprised one moonlit night
standing on the verge of the cliff,
with arms upstretched and a dis-
tracted air, was a real person?"

"I do. We laughed at the time; he made it seem so tragic and preposterous. I do not feel like laughing now."

I gazed at Sinclair in horror.
"Beaton mentioned no names," I
stubbornly protested. "He did not
even call the vision he encountered a
woman. It was a wraith, you remember, a dream-maiden, a creature of
his own imagination, born of some
tragedy he had read."

"Beaton is a gentleman," was Sin-
clair's reply. "He did not wish to
injure, but to warn the woman for
whose benefit he told his tale."
"Warn?"

"He doubtless reasoned in this
way. If he could make this young
lady and probably sensitive girl realize that she had been seen and her
intentions recognized, she would beware of such attempts in the future."

"Good God; Sinclair, don't let us harrow up ourselves unnecessarily! I saw them both, the girls, a moment
ago and nothing in their manner
showed that anything was amiss
with either of them."

He drew me toward the library.
This room was not frequented by
the young people at night. Sinclair
wished to show me the cabinet where
the box had been.

There was a fire in the grate.
When the door had closed behind us
we found that this same fire made all
the light there was in the room.

Sinclair drew a deep breath. "Mr.
Armstrong must have gone else-
where to read the evening papers,"
he remarked.

Sinclair drew me toward a tall
cabinet and, pointing to a shelf far
above our heads, cried:
"No woman could reach that un-
aided. Gilbertine is tall, but not tall enough for that. I purposely put it
high."

I looked about for a stool. There was one just behind Sinclair. I drew

his attention to it.

He flushed and gave it a kick,
then shivered slightly and sat down
in a near-by chair. I knew what he was thinking. Gilbertine was taller
than Dorothy. This stool might have served Gilbertine if not Dorothy.

I felt a great sympathy for him.
After all, his case was more serious
than mine. The bishop was coming
to marry him the next day.

ARMS CONFERENCE WAS BIG EVENT

Armament Session Marked Greatest Achievement of Government During Year 1922

OTHER THINGS ACCOMPLISHED

Tariff Legislation, Credit For Farmers and Other Things Mark a Successful Year

Washington, Dec. 29—The Washington arms conference, with its great international pacts for limitation of naval armament stands out as the greatest achievement of the United States government in 1922.

The new year is expected to bring final ratifications of all the Washington conference treaties, as this government is confident that France and Italy will not jeopardize all this peace preserving work by failing to approve the pacts.

The conference which adjourned early in February after a session of about three months drew up treaties which called for:

A ten year naval holiday in battleship construction.

A maximum battleship tonnage of 525,000 tons for the United States and Great Britain, 315,000 tons for Japan and about 170,000 for France and Italy.

The scrapping of the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

The scrapping of about 70 battleships.

Restrictions on submarine and gas war fare.

The preservation of peace in the Pacific through the Four Power Treaty.

A series of treaties seeking to stabilize China and to make the principle of "The Open Door" a reality in the Far East.

At the end of 1922 there is a strong demand in Congress for another armament parley to supplement the work of this year's conference. The House Appropriations committee has inserted a provision in the naval appropriations bill requesting President Harding to call a conference to consider limitations on the construction of aircraft, submarines and smaller auxiliary vessels.

At the same time the Harding administration has come to the conclusion that the United States must intervene in Europe to prevent an economic collapse there and is now seeking the most practical way in which its aid can be extended.

In the line of legislation, the enactment of the Fordney-McCumber tariff law, revising as it does all the customs of the government, may be considered the greatest job performed by Congress during the year. The law was passed late in September, after having been under debate for two years. Virtually all tariff duties were raised, and the bill is now breaking all records for customs receipts.

Other important legislation included:

The act providing for the refunding of the war debt and the creation of the debt refunding commission.

Provision for additional credits to the farmers.

Creation of a federal fact finding coal commission as a result of the coal strike to investigate the mining industry.

Much minor legislation also was passed, but many of the legislative problems facing Congress at the beginning of the year still remain unsolved. Although a majority in Congress favors a soldier bonus bill, it was blocked by a presidential veto, the senate failing to override the veto. The ship subsidy bill, strongly advocated by the administration still is pending with its fate in doubt.

President Harding has recommended a huge program of legislation which can hardly be touched before the present Congress goes out of office on March 4.

In the Supreme Court, the most important decision of the year probably was the one defining the rights of organized labor. In a case brought by the Coronado Coal Co., of Arkansas, as the result of strike riots in 1914, in which miners are alleged to have caused great damage in the mines, the court held that labor unions can be sued for damages and that heads of the unions can be held responsible for any illegal acts of the union members, if the act resulted from orders issued by the leaders. The decision was generally regarded as limiting the activities of strikers and organized labor considered it a blow to its rights.

In other important decisions, the Supreme Court declared unconstitutional the child labor law, upheld the packer control law, knocked out parts of the Grain Future Trading acts, strengthened the prohibition law in several decisions and handed down decisions affecting scores of state laws.

The government has made big strides toward governmental economy during the year, cutting the federal budget for the next year down to about $3,000,000,000, or more than $600,000,000 under appropriations for the current year.

So far virtually no progress has been made in the refunding of the $11,000,000 war debt to the United States. France has been unwilling to enter into any agreement regarding

"BIG BOY" WEIGHS 291 TONS

LARGEST PASSENGER LOCOMOTIVE IN THE WORLD WELCOMED BY WYOMING'S GOVERNOR—TO HAVE 54 "BIG BROTHERS"

The largest passenger locomotive in the world (shown above) is to have 54 brothers, the Union Pacific system has announced. No. 7,000—the first of the 55 record-breakers—which pulls the crack Los Angeles Limited over the mountains from Cheyenne, Wyo., proved such a success that the huge order was placed immediately after its tryout. All will be put to work dragging the heavy winter tourist traffic to the Coast. This "big boy" of American railroading weighs more than 291 tons, and stands just 15 feet 10 inches from rail to smokestack. It is nearly 100 feet long and the drive wheels are more than six feet in diameter. The lower picture shows Governor Robert D. Carey welcoming No. 7,000 to Wyoming.

"I have just finished a treatment of your wonderful remedy and can say it has done wonders for me already. For the past five years I have been unable to eat any but the lightest food and that but sparingly, as any food caused me to bloat with gas. I was reduced to a skeleton of ninety pounds, and was on the road to the boneyard. A friend in Birmingham sent me a bottle of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which I took, and I am sure it will entirely cure me of my trouble, judging from what it brought from me and the way I feel". It is a simple harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. PISTON RINGS

Perfect Regulation-- Positive Lubrication

THE PERFECT CIRCLE Oil Regulating Piston Ring has an annular groove turned on the face of the ring, midway between the edges. At equal intervals in this groove, slots are milled through to the inner surface of the ring. The groove, which is turned on the surface, collects the oil from the cylinder wall and, as the groove fills, the surplus is drained away through the slots. The oil that is thus collected behind the ring is drained back into the crank case by means of holes drilled through the inner wall of the ring groove. The superiority of the PERFECT CIRCLE Oil-Regulating Ring is due to its double function. First, it regulates lubrication by returning surplus oil to the crank case. Second, it provides positive lubrication of the cylinder wall. The use of PERFECT CIRCLE Oil-Regulating Rings reduces oil consumption to a minimum, thereby eliminating the evil of fouled spark plugs and carbon deposits. Only one Oil-Regulating Ring is used to a piston.

WOULD ABOLISH TRUSTEES

One From South Whitley Expresses His Opinion in a Letter

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 29.—"I think the day of the township trustee in Indiana should have ended ten years ago," J. Lee Emery, township trustee of South Whitley, wrote to the state department of public instruction today.

He is the second trustee who has written in favor of abolishing that office as recommended in a report by the Indiana School Survey commission. The commission advised a county unit school system.

"Too many trustees are 'penny pinchers,'" Emery said, "too many of them are not school men, neither are they interested in our schools. Many of them are stale and neglect their duty to the school, by placing money above the welfare of the child."

Nazimova At The Princess

As an evidence of its tremendous popularity on the stage, it is estimated that "Camille," the Nazimova production for Metro pictures showing today and Saturday at the Princess has been played at least a thousand times in this country alone since its first production in France seventy years ago.

An accurate estimate is extremely difficult to make, as nearly every stock company has it in its repertoire. Matilda Heron, who has the record for a long run of the play in this country, with forty-five performances in one season and twenty-one in another, played it for more than a decade, sometimes twice weekly. On this one play alone it is said that Miss Heron made $100,000.

In France "Camille" has always been a tremendous box office attraction, its tragic story of love and sacrifice appealing not only to pleasure-loving Paris, but to the more staid cities and villages throughout the rest of the country. It is figured that the author's native land has witnessed nearly three thousand presentations of "Camille."

Ray S. Smallwood directed it and June Mathis made the adaptation. Rudolph J. Bergquist was photographer, Natacha Rambova, art director, and Joseph Calder, technical director.

New Actor At Mystic

The newest addition to the ever-increasing ranks of the motion picture stars is William Faversham, for many years one of the most distinguished actors of the English speaking stage who makes his appearance in "The Man Who Lost Himself," the first of a series of Selznick Pictures featuring this famous player.

"The Man Who Lost Himself," from a book by H. de Vere Stacpoole, will be shown at the Mystic Theatre today only.

It is described as a mystery comedy drama with setting in London. It concerns the adventures of an American who goes to sleep one night as plain Victor Jones, of Philadelphia, and awakes the next morning as the Earl of Rochester, with a household of ornate servants and disagreeable relatives, a beautiful wife from whom he is supposed to be estranged, and a reputation that makes him one of the most shunned men in English polite society.

Poor Jones has an equally hard time living up to the title or trying to get away from it, and his numerous odd adventures are said to constitute one of the most remarkable comedy dramas ever presented on the screen, and a production fully worthy of Mr. Faversham's talents.

CHILDREN EVADE LAW

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 30.—Many children are not attending school as required by law, according to E. U. Graff, superintendent of schools. The last legislature raised the age at which working permits may be granted children from 14 to 16 years. This law has been disobeyed in many instances. Superintendent Graff told the instruction committee of the board of school commissioners. He asked for additional help in the attendance department in order to remedy this condition.

PEACE WITH ALL MEN:—
Follow peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord.—Hebrews 12: 14.

The Primary Law

Governor McCray has announced that despite his personal disapproval of the primary law, popular opinion instead of an organized movement, will guide the forthcoming session of the Indiana general assembly in its treatment of the measure.

Public sentiment is a most difficult thing to follow, but if the results that have been obtained from the operation of the law in Indiana are any guide, such a complex system of selecting party candidates for office is not very popular with the voters because they have not used it.

Albert J. Beveridge, republican candidate for United States senator from Indiana, received 206,165 votes in the primary and 524,558 in the November election, thus disclosing that he won the nomination by receiving barely forty percent of the vote cast for him at the election. Samuel Ralston was given the nomination by his party with a little more than thirty percent of his election vote.

There were 668,000 votes cast for all senatorial candidates in Indiana in the primary and in the election there were 1,082,727 votes for Mr. Ralston and Mr. Beveridge, showing that only sixty-five percent of the people who participated in the general election had enough interest in their party to take part in the selection of candidates.

The primary election law of Indiana was enacted in 1915, and has been in operation at the elections of 1916, 1918, 1920 and 1922. It applies to the Democratic and the Republican parties only. In 1916, the primary was held in March, in 1918, 1920 and 1922 in May.

The primary provides for a preferential vote for president, vice-president, United States senator, and governor; for the direct nomination of candidates for congress, the general assembly, all county, city and township officers, and the local judiciary; for the election of precinct committeemen and delegates to the state convention; and the creation and control of party machinery.

There are four officers for which a preferential vote may be taken; 358 for which direct nominations may be made, involving the possible selection of 9056 candidates; 3283 precinct committeemen and 1678 delegates to the state convention to be elected, and 19 state officers, who are nominated at the state convention.

As originally enacted in 1915, the Indiana law contained a first and second choice provision, but owing to its unpopularity and complexity, this provision was repealed in 1917.

PEOPLE'S SAYSO

Mr. Editor of the Republican: Through your valuable paper I wish to say that the Christian people are becoming more and more awake to the fact that a great tidal wave of unbelief is sweeping over Christendom, not the blasphemous atheism voiced by Tom Paine and Bob Ingersoll but the cultured kind represented in the scholarship of our day, which makes the danger all the more insidious.

I have been noticing for a few years past the declination of church going people and the decline is alarming. Not only are the great colleges and seminaries undermining the faith of the better educated but the common school books and especially those used in the high school are similarly inculcating a distrust in the Bible, a contradiction of its teachings.

For a college graduate of today to declare his faith in the inspiration of the scriptures would bring upon him the scorn of his companions, a scorn which few would court or could endure. At very best a few will be found to claim that they believe that Jesus and his apostles were sincere though they blundered in quoting from the old testament as inspired.

Such a belief in Jesus and his apostles is no belief at all, for if present day higher critics are wise enough to know when and where our Lord and his apostles erred in their quotation from the old testament, then these wise men of our day are our proper guides!

More inspired than Jesus and his apostles, the religious world realizing the need, is seeking to do all in its power to stem the tide and lift up the Lord's standard for the people. Although by and through the ecclesiastical powers we today have D. D.'s and presiding elders to feed the flocks, and if anyone will take the time to read Ezekiel 34-4, as for that matter the whole chapter, they will find the reason why the churches are where they are today. Instead of doing what our Lord commanded the D. D.'s and higher-ups preach everything but the gospel of Jesus Christ.

There is Armistice Day, Freedman's day, Christian Endeavor Day, Armenian Day and many other days, but none for the Salvation of Souls. I want to ask where has that old time religion gone? Has God changed? No. For he says there are two immutable things he can not do. He can not change nor he can not lie. How in the world can we worship in a lie. We often sing Give Me This Old Time Religion, when all the time we are singing we are singing a lie. They forget that the command was 'go ye into all the world and preach glad tidings, and my gospel to every creature and for them to not take with them neither purse nor scrip nor two coats, nor staves.' Yet we have the one thousand, two thousand, five and even ten thousand dollar preachers making God's word a travesty.

This is why over one half of the people have quit going to church, all style and no God. All this is brought about by these great D. D.'s I wish some one to show me in the scripture the word D. D. Christ called the weak to confound the mighty. He chose fishermen for his disciples, not the learned nor the mighty that have worn their heads bald studying how to read great essays. How beautiful are their feet that stand on Zion's hill and bring glad tidings and peace.

THE RIVER TIME

A wonderful stream is the river
Time
As it runs through the realms of
tears,
With a faultless rhythm and a musical
rhyme
And a broader sweep and a surge
sublime,
And blends with the ocean of
years.
There's a musical isle up the river
Time
Where the softest of airs are
playing;
There's a cloudless sky and a tropical
clime
And a song as sweet as a vesper
chime,
And the tunes with the roses are
staying.
And the name of this isle is the
Long Ago,
And we bury our treasures there,
There are brows of beauty and bosoms
of snow,
There are heaps of dust, but we
love them so!
There are trinkets and tresses of
hair.
There are fragments of songs that
nobody sings,
And a part of an infant's prayer;
There's a lute unswept and a harp
without strings,
There are broken vows and pieces of
rings,
And the garment she used to
wear.
There are hands, that are waves
when the fairy shore
By the mirage is lifted in air;
And we sometimes hear through the
turbulent roar
Sweet voices we heard in the days
gone before
When the wind down the river is
fair.
O remember'd for aye be the blessed
isle,
All the day of life till night!
And when evening comes, with its
beautiful smile,
And our eyes are closing in slumber
awhile,
May that Greenwood of soul be in
sight.

MYSTERY REMAINS
AN UNSOLVED ONE

Two Months Has Elapsed Since
Poison Cake Was Received by
Philadelphia Couple

HUSBAND DIED FROM AFFECTS

All Clues to Sterrett Cake Mystery
Have Been Set Aside by The Officers

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 29—The Sterrett poison cake mystery has
gone down on the crime annals of Pennsylvania as "unsolved".

Two months ago today Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Sterrett of Devon, near
here, received a neatly wrapped parcel
post package that contained two
large slices of wedding cake.

Shortly after eating the cake, Mr.
and Mrs. Sterrett became ill and
were rushed to Bryn Mawr Hospital.
Sterrett died from poison that was
secreted in the "devil's food" and,
after a long illness, Mrs. Sterrett recovered.

Investigators and postal inspectors began a nationwide search for
the sender of the "death package".
The parcel bore no identification
marks and the address was type-
written, baffling authorities.

Sterrett was a public accountant
and search was instituted for a man
who would have had a motive in
taking the accountant's life, because
he had found discrepancies in accounts, but without avail.

Clues first pointed to an insane
man who was once employed by
Sterrett and later to women, one in Youngstown, Ohio, another in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Typewriters, hundreds of them,
were examined to find the machine
that addressed the "parcel of death"
but without success.

The investigation had included
hundreds of drug stores where the
arsenic that was blended with the
sweet white icing on the cake was
purchased, but without result.

Even a coroner's inquest into
Sterrett's death has not been held,
because of the lack of one single
tangible thing upon which a jury
might hang a verdict.

Mrs. Sterrett has closed up her
house at Devon, sold her furniture
and returned to the home of her
mother at Claredon, Pa.

The Girl on The Edge of a Cliff
CHAPTER II

Dorothy, unlike Gilbertin Murray,
was not to be read at a glance, and
her trouble—for she certainly had
a trouble—was not one she chose to
share with any one, even with me. I
could not but ask if the varying
moods by which I had found myself
secretly harrowed had not sprung
from a cause for which my persis-
tent love was more to blame than
the temper of her relative. The aver-
sion she had once shown to my at-
tentions had yielded long ago to a
shy, but seemingly sincere appreciation of them, culminating today in
that soft pressure of my hand which
had awakened my hopes and made
me forget all the doubts and cap-
rices of a disturbing courtship.

But, had I interpreted that strong,
nervous pressure aright? Had it
necessarily meant love? Might it
not have sprung from a sudden des-
perate resolution to accept a devotion which offered her a way out of
difficulties especially galling to one
of her gentle but lofty spirit? Her
expression when she caught my look
of joy had little of the demure ten-
derness of a maiden blushing at her
first involuntary avowal. There was
shrinking in it, but it was the
shrinking of a frightened woman,
not of an abashed girl. Had I mistaken my darling's feelings? Or had
she secretly yielded to another what
she had so long denied me and—
"Ah!" said Sinclair at this juncture,
"I see that I have roused you at last." "You begin to see that a
question of the most serious import
is before us, and that this question
must be answered before we separate for the night."

"I do," said I.
"Then so much is gained. The
next point is, how are we to settle
our doubts? We can not approach
either of these ladies with questions.
A girl wretched enough to contem-
plate suicide would be especially
careful to conceal both her misery
and its cause. Neither can we order
a search made for an object so
small that it can be concealed about
the person. Yet this jewel must be recovered. Listen Sinclair. I will have a talk with Dorothy, you with Gilbertine. If a secret lurks in either
breast our tenderness should find it
out.

But before we proceed to such extreme measures, let us make sure
that there is no shorter road to the
truth. Some one may have seen
which of our two girls went back to
the library after we all came out of
it. That would narrow down our inquiry and save one of them, at least,
from unnecessary disturbance."

Mrs. Armstrong, our hostess, was
fond of gaiety, and amusements were
never lacking. As we stepped down
into the great hall we heard music
in the drawing room and saw that
a dance was in progress.

"That is good," observed Sinclair.
"We shall run less risk of finding
the library occupied."

"Shall I not look and see where
the girls are? It would be a great
relief to find them both among the
dancers."

"Yes," said he.
I slipped toward the drawing-
room.

A rush of young people greeted
me as soon as I showed myself. But I was able to elude them and catch
the one full glimpse I wanted of the
great room beyond. On a divan near
the center was a lady conversing

with two gentlemen. Her back was
toward me, but I had no difficulty in
recognizing Miss Murray. Some distance from her, but with her face
also turned away, stood Dorothy.
She appeared quite at ease and more
than usually cheerful.

Relieved, I hastened back to Sin-
clair, who was watching me with
furtive eyes from between the curtains of the window. As I joined him
a young man, who was to act as
usher, sauntered from behind one of
the great pillars and, crossing to
where the music-room door stood
open, disappeared behind it.

Sinclair seized me by the arm.

"Was that Beaton?" he asked.

"Certainly; didn't you recognize
him?"

He gave me a very strange look.

"Does the sight of him recall anything?"

"No."

"You were at the breakfast-table
yesterday morning?"

"I was."

"Do you remember the dream he
related for the delectation of such
as would listen?"

Then it was my turn to go white.

"You don't mean—" I began.

"I thought at the time that it
sounded more like a veritable ad-
venture than a dream; now I am
sure that it was such."

"Sinclair! You do not mean that
the young girl he professed himself
to have surprised one moonlit night
standing on the verge of the cliff,
with arms upstretched and a dis-
tracted air, was a real person?"

"I do. We laughed at the time; he
made it seem so tragic and pre-
posterous. I do not feel like laugh-
ing now."

I gazed at Sinclair in horror.

"Beaton mentioned no names," I
stubbornly protested. "He did not
even call the vision he encountered a
woman. It was a wraith, you remember, a dream-maiden, a creature of
his own imagination, born of some
tragedy he had read."

"Beaton is a gentleman," was Sin-
clair's reply. "He did not wish to
injure, but to warn the woman for
whose benefit he told his tale."

"Wait!"

"He doubtless reasoned in this
way. If he could make this young
lady and probably sensitive girl real-
ize that she had been seen and her
intentions recognized, she would beware of such attempts in the future."

"Good God; Sinclair, don't let us
harrow up ourselves unnecessarily!
I saw them both, the girls, a moment
ago and nothing in their manner
showed that anything was amiss
with either of them."

He drew me toward the library.

This room was not frequented by
the young people at night. Sinclair
wished to show me the cabinet where
the box had been.

There was a fire in the grate.

When the door had closed behind us
we found that this same fire made all
the light there was in the room.

Sinclair drew a deep breath. "Mr.
Armstrong must have gone else-
where to read the evening papers,"
he remarked.

Sinclair drew me toward a tall
cabinet and, pointing to a shelf far
above our heads, cried:

"No woman could reach that un-
aided. Gilbertine is tall, but not tall
enough for that. I purposely put it
high."

I looked about for a stool. There was one just behind Sinclair. I drew

his attention to it.

He flushed and gave it a kick,
then shivered slightly and sat down
in a near-by chair. I knew what he was thinking. Gilbertine was taller
than Dorothy. This stool might have
served Gilbertine if not Dorothy.

I felt a great sympathy for him.
After all, his case was more serious
than mine. The bishop was coming
to marry him the next day.
